Timothy F. McCurdy concentrates his practice in medical malpractice litigation defense, trusts and estates litigation, and elder law.

Tim has more than fifteen years of experience litigating complex medical malpractice matters. Tim handles every aspect of a medical malpractice case, ranging from initial investigation to depositions and expert discovery through examination of witnesses at trial.

Tim's fiduciary litigation practice includes guardianship and conservatorships, trust disputes, and breach of fiduciary duties actions.

Tim assists families through every stage of life with estate planning and elder law. Tim's estate planning practice ranges from assisting families with young children plan for their future, to helping individuals approaching retirement to conduct legacy planning. As an elder law attorney, Tim also helps seniors protect their life-savings while ensuring access to the health care they need.

Tim is licensed in Missouri and Illinois, and he is admitted to practice in the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Missouri, the U.S. District Court for Southern Illinois, and the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals.
